

MARINA EXPANDS

360 Additional Spaces Now Available for Campers

A 30 acre addition to the city marina opened last weekend. The new addition will provide facilities for over 360 additional campers. There are at present fresh water outlets for the campers and electricity will be provided in the near future.

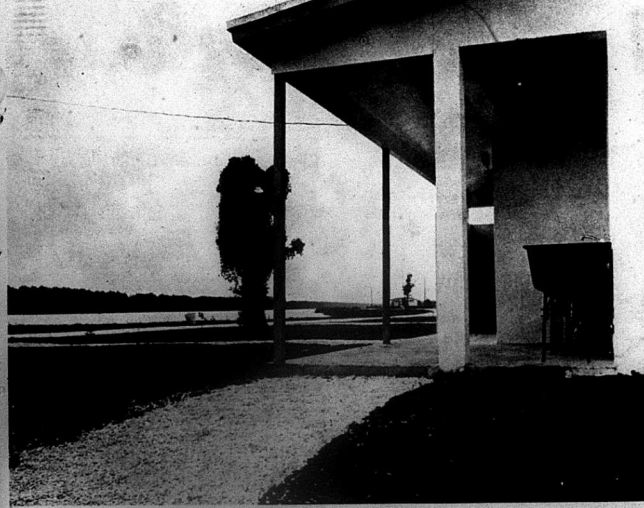

The new facilities are located on Torrey Island and are complete with two 30 by 30 comfort stations constructed at a cost of $24,236. The decision to open the addition came after the comfort stations, built by Blanton & Unwin contracting firm, Pahokee, were accepted by the city and officials of the Flood Control District.

Both of the stations have hot and cold showers and outside laundry tubs. The project was delayed because the Palm Beach County Health Department refused permission for the installation of septic tanks for the rest rooms. After permission was granted the septic tanks were constructed at a cost of approximately $8,000.

City Manager Tevis Hugely estimates the value of the city owned recreational area at over $250,000. A loan of $35,000 was obtained from the Florida Recreational Board of Finance for most of the cash expenditures.

There have been many contributions of men, machinery and materials by local growers, builders, contractors and other interested citizens. Neal Dillard, engineer for the FCD said the marina complex was possibly the only one of its type and magnitude in the state.

Police Chief Charles D. Goodlett, a member of the port committee reports that during the past several weekends, all camp sites on the original 10 acre tract have been filled to capacity. Reservations for the use of the pavilion on the original site have been booked for more than a year in advance, he said.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR KIDNEY PATIENT

A fund drive to assist Harold (Eddie) Mills, 21, a former Pahokee High School student now suffering from a serious kidney infection is off to a good start. Mrs. Hugh Branch, wife of a Pahokee produce broker who is heading the fund raising drive, reported $3,049.70 had been received Tuesday.

An anonymous local resident has signed a $4,000 note guaranteeing payment of hospital, doctor and medical expenses until Mills can receive an artificial kidney at a Miami hospital.

Young Mills, a former employee of an area electrical contractor, is married to the former Gloria Jean Hall, of Bryant. They have a seven-month old son, Harold Wayne. Since the first of December Mr. Mills has been a patient in Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, as physicians battled to keep him alive.

Mr. Grady Mills, the boy's father reported it would take more than $4,000 to keep Eddie in the Dade County institution until such time as a mechanical kidney could be obtained. The federal government has assured Dr. William Way Anderson, who heads the kidney center of the University of Miami, that Mills will receive the much needed machine by May 1.

Mrs. Branch said that the members of the First Baptist Church of Canal Point were the first to respond to the fund drive. At Sunday church services the congregation, described as one of the smallest in the Glades contributed $481 to the fund. Area produce growers and brokers, as well as others in related business enterprises, have rallied to the cause. Mrs. Branch explained "The telephone has done nothing but ring." Mrs. Branch stated, "and the deluge of mail has kept me busy since the story came out. In South Bay, Mr. and Mrs. John Busbee organized their own house-to-house canvass for the stricken Glades area resident. John who is employed in the Belle Glade City Water Department, and his wife Marie, an interpreter to the Glades Office Building, collected $118 in a few hours.

Through their efforts a Belle Glade contractor added an additional $200 Tuesday.

To this day, Eddie Mills has not been told of the donations being made to keep him alive.

Driver Charged In Fatal Accident

Tuesday in Palm Beach Criminal Court, a Pahokee man was charged with two counts of manslaughter, reckless driving and speeding, in the death of a man and woman in a car accident last week.

Chester Rouse is free on bond in the Jan. 25 accident. He was the driver of a car that was pushing another car driven by Ed Davis of Pahokee, while making efforts to get the stalled vehicle started. As the autos were proceeding south on U. S. 441, three miles south of Pahokee the Davis car veered into the northbound traffic lane into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Jones, 37, of 1077 Belle Glade Rd., Pahokee.

Mrs. Jones died at Everglades Memorial Hospital, and Davis was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. FHP Trooper Burroughs and Whaley stated Mrs. Jones was trapped in her wrecked car for perhaps 20 minutes before being taken to the hospital.

Three other youths and Rouse were charged with injuries in the accident. The Davis auto was wrapped around a large pine tree on the east side of the highway.

REPORT CARDS LATE

West Palm Beach — All report cards printed by data processing will be about one week late, it is announced. They were to have been released February 6, but now will be available about February 13.

This slight delay has been caused by a combination of circumstances beyond the control of the county school system.

(1) This year the school system has been required to prepare two earnings reports for all of its more than 5000 employees, covering both the last school fiscal year (JULY 1, 1966 through June 30, 1967), and the last calendar year (January 1, 1967 through December 31, 1967). With a payroll in excess of $600,000, the necessary computations represent a considerable undertaking.

(2) There was a delay in the delivery of some equipment for the school system's computer necessary for the supplying of this information.

As a result of these factors, the completion of the W-2 forms required by all school employees in the preparation of their income tax returns, are late, but will be mailed out by January 31, school officials state.

Work on the report cards will begin immediately. The computer becomes available for that purpose.

Heart Fund Drive Starts Today

Ed McDaniel, president of the Bank of Belle Glade, will head the Heart Fund Business Drive which starts today in Belle Glade.

McDaniel, who is serving as chairman for the third year, announced that the business drive will be conducted here through Feb. 16.

"Good progress has been made in the fight against heart and circulatory diseases," he commented. Yet these diseases remain this nation's number one killer. Everyone's help is needed and will be appreciated."

Representatives of the business community have been recruited to visit professional and business offices and stores to receive Heart Fund contributions during the next two weeks.

The 1968 Heart Fund campaign will reach its climax during the weekend of Heart Sunday, Feb. 25, when about 160 Heart Fund volunteers in Belle Glade will visit their neighbors to distribute heart-

Examinations For Postal Clerks Now Being Given

Announcement is being made by the United States Civil Service Commission that examinations for Postal Clerk and city carrier will be given for 22 offices in the vicinity of West Palm Beach and to include Belle Glade, Canal Point, South Bay, and Pahokee.

Applications will be accepted until further notice, and those applying from this area will take examination in West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Rosa Nash, local postmaster said anyone interested in taking the examination may obtain the application blank, and further information, at the local post office.

Fire Destroys Institution Building

A fire that started at 4:10 p. m. Tuesday destroyed a shed in the industries complex of the Glades Correctional Institution, located north of here on Highway 441. An investigation into the cause of the blaze is underway, according to

Supt. L. P. Parson. The shed contained a quantity of fertilizer, shell beans and peas, bags for the produce and wooden field boxes. Damage has been estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000, according to the superintendent.

Units from the Everglades Fire Control District, under Asst. Chief E. C. Rogers, and one truck from the Belle Glade Fire Department under Fire Chief Cecil Bair answered the call.

Bair said one of the GCI officials was at the scene. Lt. Jim Keene, said the open-type structure appeared to be burning all over when he spotted the fire about 4:10 p. m. The GCI furnishes a major portion of the fresh and canned vegetables, and fresh meat that is served within the prison system.

The building adjoins a storage area for farm and canning machinery, but this area was spared extensive damage. The area in which the fire was located is not near any prisoner housing.

Officials from the state fire marshal's office are being notified of the blaze and will assist in the investigation. It is possible that the blaze started from defective electric wiring, Parson said.

A spectacular Tuesday afternoon fire destroyed an equipment shed at Glades Correctional Institution. Cause of the fire still is being investigated. Loss put at $15,000 to $20,000.

County Bowling Tournaments Final Deadline Entries Feb. 3

Norman Longren, President of the Palm Beach County Men's Bowling Association, announced that the final deadline for the entries on the County Tournaments is midnight February 3rd. Mr. Longren stated that although the first date of the competition does not start until the weekend of March 2nd, that Bob Conn, secretary, needs this lead period to do the scheduling of teams, singles and doubles events and have the information in the bowlers hands in plenty of time.

The team event will be held at Delray Bowling Lanes while the Singles and the Doubles events will be held at the University Bowl in Boca Raton. He also mentioned that it is important for the bowlers to know that they are able to bowl in either the Team event or the Singles and Doubles or both, dependent on their own choosing and time available. He asked that each of the league representatives make this clear to their bowlers as he understood that some had not entered as they thought it was necessary to enter both events.

Averages are taken from the 1966-67 yearbook unless their average at January 1, 1968 is ten pins higher.

Application blanks are available at all the bowling establishments in Palm Beach County. The Directors, at their annual meeting Sunday said they hoped this year would be the largest in the history of the County Tournaments.

It was such satisfaction to Paul and Lorenzo to regain the title from the very men that had beaten them!

Day School Enjoys Circus

The entire study body, kindergarten through grade 9, of the Day School of the Glades took a field trip to the Ringling Brothers circus on Wednesday, January 24th. The students were accompanied by faculty members, grade mothers, and other parents. The students and teachers boarded two chartered buses at 2:15 P. M. Grade mothers and other parents followed in cars.

Mrs. Murray Weeks, Grade Mothers Chairman, made all necessary arrangements for transportation, tickets, etc.

Before boarding the buses for the matinee performance at the West Palm Beach Auditorium, the children were treated to an interesting and educational assembly. Mrs. Betty Thiede, English and Social Studies teacher in the Day School Junior High, told the story of the history of the circus and some of the things they could expect to see and should watch for at the performance.

Everyone agreed the show was beautiful, interesting, and just lots of fun. The children returned to their homes about 8:00 P. M. filled with pop corn, cotton candy, snowballs, cokes, and hot dogs.

This was one of several field trips scheduled for the school during the year. The students have been to Ocean World and Thomas A. Edison's home earlier. Other interesting and educational field trips will be enjoyed during next semester.

THE FISHING REPORT

Speck fishing continues pretty good over the past few days. There were a lot of Specks brought in over the weekend. However, due to the winds and colder weather, there were not so many limit catches as last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson, Pompano Beach, brought in their limit (100) on Sunday.

Homer Carr, West Palm Beach, got his limit on Saturday. Dan May and friend, Belle Glade, braved the cold weather on Thursday night and came in with 83. Slim says he must be a real good fisherman, to do so well in such cold weather, but we suspect this is the only way he can outfish his wife, who was smart enough to stay home.

The bass picked up Sunday afternoon, and is hoped to continue through the next week.

Bob Ohman, Belle Glade, came in with 5 bass on Sunday. One weighed in at 7 3/4 pounds.

We are all looking forward to a good fishing weekend as the weather continues to clear up.

Kill this pestilential weed in sugar cane.
Use Atrazine. Here's how:

When you see pestilential weed starting to grow, apply Atrazine 80W herbicide, plus a little surfactant. You'll clean out infestations of this winter annual fast and effectively — without hurting cane.

Atrazine is safe to sugar cane. It will not injure your crop when you apply it as directed on the label. And since it's non-volatile, there's no danger of drift to adjacent, sensitive crops.

Even though Atrazine has proved to control pestilential at any stage of growth, early treatment assures best results. With pestilential under control early, you grow more sugar cane per acre.

That's because Atrazine prevents pestilential from interfering with sugar cane tillering. Also, Atrazine helps make soil moisture and nutrients available for your cane, and not for pestilential weed.

So plan now to grow the maximum tonnage of sugar cane from each acre you plant this season. Just use Atrazine to control pestilential weed this winter.

SENSING THE NEWS

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Real State of the Union

The U. S. Constitution requires that the President give Congress a report on the State of the Union. And President Lyndon B. Johnson lived up to the letter of the law when he recently appeared before Congress to give his presentation. But the spirit of the law was far from being fulfilled in that address. The American people simply didn't get the needed data on the state of the nation's affairs.

As we move into 1968, the country is confronted with many grim problems, and the President did not delineate them with sufficient force and candor. Referring to the war in Vietnam, Mr. Johnson said the American will not persevere will not be broken. But that's not really the point. What he failed to say is that the United States will persevere with determination to win a victory over the forces of communism that are taking so many American lives and so much of our national wealth. Missing from the address was a clear-cut statement of a victory goal — the goal that would make the war effort truly worthwhile.

Nor did Mr. Johnson deal frankly with the crisis of confidence concerning the American dollar. He put the blame on U. S. tourists for a big chunk of the nation's balance of payments deficit. But he didn't put a finger on the real source of trouble — American giveaways and wasteful spending programs abroad. On the contrary, he indicated that he will continue to pour out American money overseas. "The Food for Freedom Program" and expansion of the International Development Association. Clearly, the balance of payments problem cannot be ended by stopping teachers from taking a summer holiday. Washington is the root of the fiscal deficit as well as the balance of payments problem. Though he admitted that the U. S. faces some financial problems, Mr. Johnson showed not the slightest intention of returning government spending to a reasonable level. Instead, he proposes that the government spend more than $10 billion above what it spent last year. What sense is there for Mr. Johnson to say he is a more of the same "spend and run" talk that was favored when he entered politics in the New Deal era.

The turn is that the country is in deep trouble, spending vast sums on a war that the administration gives little or no sign of determining to win. America's cities are plagued with street revolutionaries who want to burn down the nation. Radicals are trying to foment draft resistance and otherwise spread anarchist ideas among the young people of this country. Welfareism is out of hand and has become a career for many thousands of free loaders. Free enterprise is caught between oppressive Big Government units for low and middle-income families.

By proposing a federal budget of almost $190 billion, Mr. Johnson is further endangering the financial stability of the United States and the integrity of the U. S. dollar. He is recommending an enormous deficit that will place a crippling load on the rising generation of young Americans.

The State of the Union address gave ample evidence that Mr. Johnson is unwilling to recognize the reality of the nation's realities in this election year. His address was

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says:

Dear Mister Editor,

On account of February being the month of birthdays, the fellows at the country store Saturday night was saying a few words about Lincoln and Washington and such February heroes that went to their reward long ago what Ed Doolie always calls "Dread Down the North Star".

It was Ed that right off wanted to get Ab Lincoln on the agenda. So while he still had the floor from reporting on the Groundhog predictions for February weather, he went on to recall some of them "immortal words" from Lincoln. Clem Webster says Ed always uses that term when he sets out to quote Lincoln.

Anyhow, Mister Editor, Ed said Ab always enjoyed telling the story about the buffalog, so he used that for the Lincoln lesson of the year. It seems this buffalog fell into a wagon rut and couldn't jump out no matter how hard he tried. He called for his friends and they pulled and pulled on him but couldn't get him out. Final, the friends went off and left him. The next day the old buffalog was at his usual place on the banks of the river. His friends was surprised, and they said they thought he couldn't get out of the rut. "I couldn't get out," said the buffalog, "but I heard a wagon coming and here I am." Ed said the lesson was of the opinion we got a heap of them buffalogs living off the country simply because they ain't never heard the wagon coming.

Clem said he was glad to get the Lincoln lesson out of the way for another year. He said he didn't know where the buffalog story come from on account of Ed give Lincoln and the Bible credit for everthing he heard. Clem was ready to change the subject, so he announced he was planning to change his name from Webster to Aulton. When the fellows wanted to know how come, Clem said he would live longer.

He explained he had saw folks that has names beginning with down the alphabet has more ailments than them with names like Adams and Brown. He said the world was getting so crowded folks had to stand in line for everthing from groceries to Communion. They usual line up alphabetically and the Websters had to wait till the crows come home, and they wait with heart attacks, very close veins and such in this community, a Miss Grace Bedell, and if she is in the crowd I would appreciate it if she would come to the foreward to receive my thanks for her suggestion that I grow a beard.

Her parents promptly brought her proudly to the train platform where Lincoln was waiting. Reaching down he lifted

'STOP THE BOMBING!'

THE DEEP END

By TOM HERAN

Escalation to Oblivion

Let us for a minute consider the unpleasant thought that the incident in North Korea was perpetrated by the U. S. Government, namely Lyndon Johnson for the purpose of escalating the Vietnamese war.

None of us likes to think that, but there is always the possibility that in view of public indifference to an escalation that this would be one way of getting it by blaming someone else. Mr. Johnson must come up with some type of settlement to the Vietnam war if he wants to stay in office, and we all know he wants to stay in office.

Of course deceit such as this is nothing new in international politics, there have been numerous incidents that are questionable if we should want to question them. The whole basis of presidential power in the Vietnamese war is based on the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, and recent inquiries into that incident leave some doubt that it ever took place.

Why does it become necessary for a country to lie to its people, the lies only become compounded and serve to distort and destroy the integrity of a nation. If in fact the recent North Korean incident was manufactured for political reasons it casts grave doubts on the sanity of our leaders, but there is still hope that this was a direct affront to the United States by North Korea, this I hope is the truth.

What happens to the crew of the Pueblo is what should concern this country the most, the ship can be replaced but I don't consider American lives expendable. Of course with the many administration blunders connected with this affair it is hard to tell what course of action this country will take.

If the incident was faked, we might let the crew spend a few years in North Korean prisons, but if the incident was real we might be fighting another war to free the captives by this time next week. No matter what course of action we take it will cost the American Taxpayers more money and the country more of its men.

Too Late to Classify

By Russell Kay

The thought of Abraham Lincoln without a beard is like thinking of John F. Kennedy with one. Although Lincoln wore a beard only about four years, those years carried such historic interest that Abe and his beard became synonymous, enjoying the same public acceptance as the mole in his right cheek.

As we approach another Lincoln's Birthday, the story of Abe came to grow a beard so late in life becomes of more than passing interest.

While I have read many books about the famed statesman, none of them to my memory had anything to say on the subject and I was delighted to find a heart-warming account of "Why Lincoln Grew a Beard" in the February issue of the Reader's Digest.

I doubt if you will find mention of Grace Bedell of upstate New York, an 11 year old admirer, who was directly responsible for the President's decision to adorn himself with whiskers, in any book about Lincoln, but it was a letter from this youthful little lady that caused Lincoln to consider a beard.

Studying the first photograph he had ever seen, the great man instructed his picture of Abraham Lincoln brought home from the fair by her father, she became distressed by the hollow cheeks and gaunt appearance of her hero. She visioned the face adorned with whiskers that would hide such features.

Checking her pencil she sat in her attic room and wrote a letter to Mr. A. B. Lincoln telling him that in her opinion if he were to grow a beard it would improve his appearance, assuring him that his looks would be much improved and since all ladies of that day admired whiskers it would endear him to the women.

When Grace's letter arrived at Lincoln's campaign headquarters secretaries sorting mail were about to throw it in the waste basket when Lincoln's white entered the room and asked to see the letter. Some letter from some unknown little girl.

Both amused and impressed, the great man instructed his secretary to write the young lady expressing his appreciation for her interest and suggestion, which he would give careful consideration.

Sometime later, a special train carrying the newly elected Lincoln to the White House made a stop at Westfield and the Bedell family including little Grace were on hand to get a glimpse of the new Chief Executive.

The President stated that he had no speech to make and no time to make one "but it seems I have a special admirer in this community, a Miss Grace Bedell, and if she is in the crowd I would appreciate it if she would come to the foreward to receive my thanks for her suggestion that I grow a beard."

Her parents promptly brought her proudly to the train platform where Lincoln was waiting. Reaching down he lifted the little girl and permitted her to feel the growth of whiskers he was developing.

If you visit the Lincoln Memorial house in Springfield you will find displayed there the original letter written by Grace Bedell, and the President's carefully worded reply remained in the Bedell family until it was sold two days ago to movie producer David Wolper for $20,000.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Color television was one of the major types of gift items during the past Christmas season. Yet, in spite of record sales, many retailers held drastic price reduction sales on color sets after Christmas or at the beginning of the New Year.

On the surface it would seem that the eager buyers who obtained television sets before Christmas were taken in by dealers who made excessive profits. By waiting two weeks the buyers might have saved 20 per cent or more.

Yet practically no complaint can be heard among consumers about the difference between pre-holiday and post-holiday prices. Nearly any buyer could have anticipated the difference and purchases at the regular prices were not made without consideration.

The early purchasers received many compensations for paying the normal price. They could choose from a wider variety of styles; they could command better service; more important, they obtained the product when it would bring maximum satisfaction.

The bargain-buyer really does get a price bargain. But he makes his selection from left-overs. He may lose service guarantees and the right to exchange. If he waited two weeks to buy a color television set, his family had to forego the pleasure of seeing the special Christmas programs and bowl games in color. Viewing these programs, specially designed for color broadcast, was worth more than forty or fifty dollars to many families.

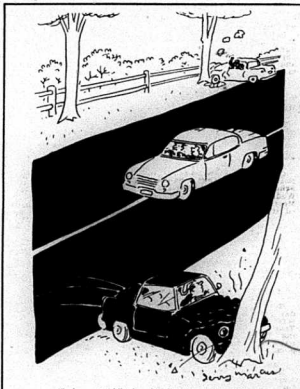

Bargain advertising does have a place in retailing. It prevents waste from surplus inventory. It does make ownership feasible for some consumers. However, it is advertising at the peak of demand which best serves the public and brings the retailer a living profit.

Book Reviews

Truman Capote's IN COLD BLOOD is a detailed account of a Kansas murder which wiped out almost an entire family. Each character is portrayed thoroughly, especially the murderers. The authenticity of each account is due to Capote's ability to mingle. He resided in Holcomb, Kansas, the scene of the murders, in order to glean the necessary information for his book. His knowledge of fact and attention to detail are the outstanding aspects of the book.

Capote did extensive research on the residents of Holcomb, the murder victims, and the killers. His relationship with the murderers was so close that of a questioning reporter. He became very close to them and therefore was able to incorporate facts into his book which might never have appeared.

In Cold Blood makes the reader aware that horrible crimes such as this are often committed. It goes deep into the past lives of the criminals to show why these men are driven to commit such crimes. It is a realistic account of a terrible tragedy which could easily happen to the reader himself.

HOW TO KEEP OUT OF JAIL, gives a detailed account of the laws of our nation dealing with crimes committed by both youth and adults. It was stimulated by a rising incidence of crime among the youth in our country and the need to do something about it. The author, Walter Bromberg, argues that the youth in our country should be presented facts that can be misinterpreted.

From reading this book students can learn how the law treats juveniles and when a crime is a crime. A detailed discussion was given, concerning crimes and how they are divided. Generally speaking, crimes are divided into felonies, misdemeanors and violations. A felony is a serious offense, such as murder or burglary. A misdemeanor is a lesser crime and calls for punishment of less than one year in jail. A violation is an infraction of a city ordinance. Any person over the age of eighteen who is convicted of a misdemeanor or felony automatically gets a criminal record which is carried in the files of the FBI. Often this criminal record can seriously handicap a person for life. A person convicted of a felony, for example, loses his voting rights for life; he cannot become a lawyer; he cannot become an officer in any branch of the armed services; and he cannot be a member of the National Guard. Lesser offenses that carry minor penalties can be troublesome, too. This book tells of nearly every possible sort of crime and how it is punishable by law.

What If . . .

What if the sun never shone again?
Or the rains or clouds couldn't form?
Or the flowers that bloom couldn't open?
Or the animals would always have harm.

In the sun too bright to walk in.
Or the rain too wet to play.
Or the flowers too sweet to smell.
Are the animals frightened away?

What if people enjoyed the sunshine
Or played in the wonderful rain
Or stooped to pick up a flower
Or loved animals frightened away.

How much brighter this big world would be
If everyone would just stop to think
Of how God gave us these to see
And how beautiful Nature can be.

Drug Abuse

Drug abuse is becoming a major problem on college campuses, as well as with high-school students and adults in our cities. Authorities estimate that between 15 and 50 percent of the teenagers in any city may be experimenting with drugs.

Marijuana, often referred to as pot, grass, or boo is one of the most widely used drugs. The greatest consumers are teenagers, hippies, and college students. Most people take it for curiosity, kicks, fun, rebellion, or boredom. What most of these consumers don't know is that marijuana can cause frequent paranoia and hallucinations. A feeling of anxiety and depression is often felt by users.

L.S.D., perhaps the worst drug, is often absorbed in chewing gum, animal crackers, and candy. The majority of its consumers take it because of the promise of drug-produced insight. L.S.D. can cause a break in chromosomes, brain damage, and a damage to the nervous system.

Perhaps if more people knew of the harmful effects that drugs can cause, the number of drug addicts would be far less. It is up to the federal, state, and local governments as well as the average citizen to curb the use of harmful drugs.

These are just a few reasons why some people believe the death penalty should be abolished: (1) The death penalty is no longer a deterrent to crime; (2) The death penalty does not allow for correcting errors. Have You Earned Freedom?

By Margaret Cross
To most teenagers in America, today, freedom is a birthright. Many don't realize what freedom is. We have taken it for granted that we live in a free world, have free elections, may choose the type of work we want, and in general have a democratic society. Most teenagers don't realize the struggle in the past that our forefathers fought for to obtain this freedom we enjoy. We gripe about having to go to school, while in Russia a continuous contest for students to stay in school so that they won't have to work in hard labor the rest of their lives.

Unless a teenager can salute the flag and feel proud; take advantage of school, and opportunity of freedom of religion; be willing to fight in Vietnam, not burn his draft card; and be proud to say he's an American; then he has not earned freedom.

SHOULD WE ABOLISH THE DEATH PENALTY?

Arguments for and against the death penalty have been going on for years. These arguments are fairly simple.

There are just a few reasons why some people believe the death penalty should be abolished: (1) The death penalty is no longer a deterrent to crime; (2) The death penalty does not allow for correcting errors. There may be mistaken identification, lapse of memory, or undiscovered evidence; (3) States without a death penalty have lowest crime rates; (4) The Christian viewpoint is that God is not only one that can take a life: CON!

Cynthia Thiebaud FFA Sweetheart

On Thursday, January 25, at 8:00 P.M. the annual F.F.A. Sweetheart contest was held. Chosen as this year's Sweetheart was Cynthia Thiebaud who is a Junior at Belle Glade High School. The runner-up in the contest were: 1st Joanne Harris a Senior and 2nd Kathryn Smith a Senior.

The girls were judged on talent, poise and beauty. The girls portrayed their talents by singing, readings, poetry, playing the piano, twirling and dancing.

The Sweetheart was presented with a bouquet of roses by the president of the club, Steve Butler, and the runners-up were presented with lovely gold bracelets. All of the girls did a wonderful job, and the contest was a great success.

Judges for the contest were: Mrs. Alice Mixson, Mr. Charles Cox and Mrs. Allen Neff.

A special thank-you is extended to Mrs. John Youngblood for playing the piano during the contest.

Should Drinking Age Be Lowered?

In most states of the United States, the age at which it becomes legal to buy alcoholic beverages is 21. There has been a lot of controversy as to whether this age should be lowered, or if there should even be an age limit.

In most European and Latin American countries, there is no age limit, and children drink from the time their baby bottles are taken from them. Alcoholic beverages are drunk just like water, coffee, or milk are here in the United States. And, statistics have shown that there are larger percentages of alcoholism in these countries than in the United States, where until a person is 21 years old, alcohol is supposedly a "forbidden fruit," something that can be had only when you're a full-fledged "adult." What is the cause of this high alcoholic rate? This is a question we should all consider.

One factor is that this "forbidden fruit" idea makes kids, especially teenagers, want it that much more, and when they get it, they drink heavily, many of them more to show off than because they really enjoy it. And, in spite of laws preventing the sale of alcohol to minors, any teenager who wants to drink (no matter what his reasons) can usually do so. He can buy alcoholic beverages. But still, there is an aura of excitement around it, because it is against the law. Breaking laws is a favorite American pastime, and with teenagers, it's no exception.

People naturally want what they can't have, and then they get it, they over-indulge. So, when a person is 21 and suddenly can legally get all the alcohol he wants, he sometimes begins to drink heavily, and this may lead to alcoholism. If people didn't make such a big deal about drinking, a lot of people would never consider getting drunk. It would be like over-eating, everyone eats, but only a very few break down and then they take away the attraction of it for those teenagers who are drinking just to show off. Drinking would no longer be a sign of rebelliousness, or defiance of the adult world and its rules. Instead, it would be a sign of a person who is trying to prove anything, just happens to enjoy drinking.

Imagination

Imagination is the capacity to form mental pictures of situations or conditions that we have not actually experienced. The first kind is called reproductive imagination and the second productive or creative imagination.

Imagination is closely related to remembering, but remembering always refers to past experiences, and so can not be creative. Remembering necessarily involves the quality of recognition that is often absent in the process of imagination. Imagination is an important ability. It enables us to span the past and the future, and is useful to both the enjoyment and the creation of art in all its forms. We use imagination to enjoy reading a novel, as well as to write one.

Daydreams serve various purposes, such as escaping temporarily from reality, overcoming frustration, or satisfying hidden wishes. But if daydreams get out of hand, a person may lose touch with reality.

He may begin to live only in his imagination, such as imagining may lead to serious mental disorder. In daydreams, and sometimes in nightmares, persons imagine themselves as conquering heroes, martyrs suffering for a cause, successful businessmen, or cowboys riding in the plains.

Well, since such useless things can be imagined. Let's try to imagine ourselves filled with laughter, joy and free of hate. And above all turning over a new leaf for the second semester.

Communication Basic For Life

Communications are the basic foundations of life. Unless there were some means of communication, life would become very dull and uninteresting. Communications in the family is with the heart as well as the ear.

The basic lines of communication in the family are:

1. Parents must be able to communicate with their children.
2. Parents must be able to communicate with each other.
3. Children must be able to communicate with parents.
4. Children must be able to communicate with each other.

If the right line of communication can be established within a family one may enjoy the best of the family for his labor.

The world would be a better place to live and we would become better people to live in it, if we could establish in our family a life of communication. Diane Rogers, had in mind and I quote, "To understand another person's thoughts and feelings thoroughly with the meaning he has in mind and be clearly understood by this person in return." This is one of the rewards of human experiences and all too rare.

Bobcats Tangle With Tigers

On Wednesday night January 24, 1968, the Lake Shore Bobcats journeyed to Fort Myers to play the Dunbar Tigers.

The "B" team of the Bobcats got off to a good start by peppering the game and letting the baby Tigers know that it's no fun to tangle with a Bobcat.

Sophomore George Terry led the Baby Bobcats to a 60-42 victory over the Tigers.

After some misunderstanding (A.M. house) Charles Walker is back on the court, rebounding, dribbling, and scoring as well as ever.

PB Society of Hospital Administrators

Something is being done about the rising costs of hospital care . . . and right here in the Palm Beach County area . . . through the Palm Beach Society of Hospital Administrators.

Hospital administrators representing area hospitals are: Russell Clayton, Bethesda Memorial Hospital of Boynton Beach; Frank J. Dawson, Boca Raton Community Hospital; Boca Raton; Jesse C. Simonds, Jr., Everglades Memorial Hospital of Pahokee; Ben Clarke, Glades General Hospital, Belle Glade; John F. Wymer, Jr., Good Samaritan Hospital, West Palm Beach; James K. Johnson, John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital, Lake Worth; R. J. Held, Palm Beach County Home & Hospital, West Palm Beach; Mother Josephine Marie, St. Mary's Hospital, West Palm Beach; and C. B. Willingham, Southeast Florida Tuberculosis Hospital, Lantana.

These Administrators, representing a full complex of hospital care in southeast Florida, are working together for the expressed purpose of co-operation in matters pertinent — and related — to all hospitals in seeking common grounds and better methods in personnel, public relations, accounting and computing practices, routine services, and improvement of — plus better methods in — standards and levels of hospital patient care. As an example, the 11 hospitals shared the expense and planning of advertising in national nursing magazines in an effort to recruit qualified RNs and LPNs for this area. Under discussion is the possibility of Shared Computer Services . . . all such cooperative effort directed to improving the efficiency of operation, better management practices, and better control of costs . . . all vital as good administration, and ultimately better service and rationalized and reasonable charge to the patient.

In essence, the Palm Beach County Hospital Administration Society is actively alert to answer pressing questions . . . to let you, the people, know . . . that your hospital administrators are constantly striving to present the most equitable

The Fantasticks Begins Feb. 5

At Playhouse

The award-winning international musical comedy, "The Fantasticks," which is the longest running musical in New York theatrical history, opens at Frank J. Hale's Playhouse in Palm Beach next Monday, February 5th, for a week's engagement. The stars are the celebrated Broadway star Howard Keel and Susan Watson, who was in the original off-Broadway production eight years ago.

This utterly charming musical premiered in New York on May 3rd, 1960 and has absolutely no signs of diminishing. It was suggested by a play called "Les Romaniques," written by Edmond Rostand. The book and lyrics are by Tom Jones and music is by Harvey Schmidt. "The Fantasticks" was the team's first full-length musical, and it has played in over 2,000 American cities and 25 foreign countries.

Director William Francisco has assembled a cast that includes Jack Blackton, Dean Dittmann, Lionel Wilson, Gary Evans, Edward Garra-brand and Don Miller. Musical direction is by Glen Glugston and the scenery has been executed by Leo B. Meyer.

On Broadway, Jones and Schmidt have been represented by "110 in the Shade" and currently, by the hit musical "I Do, I Do."

Some of the hit tunes that emerged from "The Fantasticks" are "Soon It's Gonna Rain," "Try to Remember," "I Can See It" and "They Were You."

Schools To Have Instructional T. V.

WEST PALM BEACH — The Palm Beach, Fla., county schools soon will have an instructional television (ITV) network serving classes over wide areas stretching from the Atlantic Ocean to Lake Okechobee.

When completed, "the ITV system will surpass that of any other school system in the country," according to William R. Evans, director of the county schools' department of mass media and instructional materials.

A four transmitter system is now under construction on a turn-key contract basis by Jerrold Electronics Corporation, Philadelphia. It is expected to be in full operation early this spring.

The school board already has a system serving schools in the Boynton Beach area. The Jerrold contract calls for two additional transmitter sites — at Belle Glade and at Riviera Beach.

Programing and administration of the system will be under the auspices of the School Board of Palm Beach County.

Porpoises at Marineland of Florida normally breathe every 20 to 30 seconds. However, if an emergency arises, these mammals may remain submerged for as long as six to seven minutes.

When inflating itself for defensive purposes, the porcupine fish fills its body with water and enlarges itself several times its normal size. The spine or "quills" which stick from the specimen's body are capable of inflicting painful wounds according to Marine-land of Florida.

Sea snails have no brains, reports Marineland of Florida. Instead, series of simple nerve "knots" control the snail's body parts.
